The House Alone Struggles with Business.

Republican Senators Hold a Caucus and Say Removed Officers Must be Heard.

And Know Just Why They Were Turned Out of Good, Fat Federal Offices.

REPUBLICAN SENATORS

Hold a Caucus and Decide on Future Action.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The republican senators met in caucus to-day to compare views with regard to the right of the senate to information as to the president's reasons for making removals of officers. There was a unanimous concurrence in the opinion that removed officials have the right to know whether they were removed for political reasons or mal-administration of their trusts, and that it is the senate's duty to secure this information, if possible.

WASHINGTON.

The Senate not in Session--House Proceedings.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 15.—The senate was not in session to-day, having adjourned yesterday until Monday.

HOUSE.
Mr. Black introduced a bill repealing so much of the act of June 9, 1879, as provided for exchange and redemption of subsidiary coin. Referred.

A joint resolution allowing the discharged employees of the house one month's extra pay, was defeated: Yeas, 71; nays, 189. The house then resumed the consideration of the presidential succession bill and its passage was advocated by Dibble, of South Carolina.

NOTES.

Ex-senator Menzies arrived yesterday, and was a caller at the white house, with Ex-senator McDonald and Colonel Matson.

Secretary Lamar, in the matter of the Bell telephone patent, asks the attorney general to proceed with a thorough investigation, in the name and at the expense of the government, in order to ascertain if a patent has been obtained by fraud or issued for an invention not patentable.

Despicable Work of Prominent Persons.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
New York, N. Y., Jan. 15.—The Times this morning publishes a special from Charleston, W. Va., saying that "there is excitement here over a discovery that some of the most prominent citizens in the town are now and have for years past been organized into a regular society for the destruction of property by fire. Arrests have been made and others will follow in a few days."

LOCAL LINES.

Mrs. Cass Hunter went to Hometown to-day to visit relatives.

May Bennett was fined $15 by Justice Ryan for resorting to a house of ill fame.

Emil Altman was committed to jail for whipping Hugh Stewart, the constable.

Bernhard Weber paid $100 into the county treasury to-day for a liquor license.

John Rupeal sues Wm. Baker for $100. S. H. Bloomhoff is attorney for the claimant.

Charles Rosenberger sues Charles Nathan for $100. J. R. Bittinger filed the paper.

The Knights of St. John did not elect officers last night, but will meet for the purpose again Monday night.

Mr. J. T. Rodabaugh was not sued for $1,100 yesterday, as THE SENTINEL stated, but John Rohrbach was.

Hon. and Mrs. Hugh McCulloch attended President Cleveland's first state dinner at the white house last night.

Wilhelmina Lange got judgment for $400 against Wm. Krohn, who deceived the girl and is the father of her child.

Mr. Tom Mannix is now duly installed as transfer mail agent at the south depot. Captain Lewis was relieved this morning.

There are English steel rails in the track of the Wabash road which have been laid nineteen years and they show but little sign of wear.

Capt. J. B. White has given two acres of land on the Maumee road to the Baptist church for the erection thereon of a Baptist ministers' home.

Governor and Mrs. Gray gave a brilliant reception at Indianapolis last night. Miss Georgie Fleming, of this city, was present elegantly attired.

The funeral services of Bertie Willard will be held at the Berry street M. E. church at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, leaving the house, No. 45 Madison street, at 1:30. Friends of the family are invited without further notice.

Mr. John Thieme, who with his father Mr. Andy Thieme, operates the Broadway grocery celebrated the anniversary of his birthday night before last by giving a big party to his friends. The occasion was exceedingly pleasant.

Mr. James H. Destrees, a former resident of this city, has returned and will make this place his future home. Mr. Destrees is a fourth cousin of General Lafayette and was one of the invited guests of the late Yorktown centennial celebration.

The indications for the lower lake region, as reported by the weather bureau at Washington to THE SENTINEL, are as follows: Warmer weather, increasing cloudiness with local snows turning into rain, winds generally southerly preceded by easterly winds in eastern portion, falling barometer.

The Academy was crowded to the doors last night and Messrs. Hughs and Ward are arousing the enthusiasm that characterized the old Murphy revival. The evangelists tell terrible tales of the destination and misery as results of alcoholism. Large numbers of young and old men were moved to tears by the pitiful tales and responded to the invitation to sign the pledge and make men of themselves. The Baptist church choir assisted by a strong and well drilled chorus of forty persons under Prof. Woolsey furnished excellent music. These meetings are growing intensely popular and are doing an immense amount of good. Everybody is invited to-night and will be made welcome.

The Church of the Presidents.

For a great many years St. John's Church, at Washington, has been known as the church home of the Presidents. It is a quaint little structure on H street, directly opposite Lafayette square and the White House. Ever since the church was built a pew was reserved for the Chief Magistrate. In cases where the Presidents happened to be of some other religious faith it has been customary for the President to pay the pew rent as though he attended.

Grant did it, although he was a Methodist. Hayes was also a Methodist, but it is perhaps needless to add that he did not burden the financial officers of the church with the trouble of casting any of his checks while he was the occupant of the White House. Garfield was one of the old fashioned Campbellites, but he kept up the good old custom. Arthur is a member of the Episcopal Church, and he was a regular attendant at St. John's. Mr. Cleveland hires a pew in Dr. Sunderland's Presbyterian Church, but it is said that he, too, has notified the officers at St. John's that he will be responsible for the rent of the President's pew. While Mr. Cleveland sits under the ministrations of a Presbyterian, three of his Cabinet, Messrs. Manning, Endicott and Vilas, have rented pews at St. John's and attend the services regularly.—Touche, in Boston Traveller.

A Matter of Taste.

Young Lady.—We had a delightful time at Music Hall last evening, Mr. Dumley. It was a Meyerbeer night, you know. Are you fond of Meyerbeer?

Mr. Dumley (hesitatingly).—Ye-es, out I think I would just as soon have Milwaukee.—New York Sun.

Carlisle as a Schoolmaster.

Jonathan Findlay, now a resident of Montreal, Canada, was more than sixty years ago a pupil of Carlisle's, who, Mr. Findlay says, was a cruel tyrant, ruling a class of trembling boys with a rod of iron. He was rough and uncouth in his appearance, and no one suspected that within him were the elements of a great and successful writer.

Do not be disappointed if the virtues of your friends run not like machinery in the grooves which have been made for them.

She Prepared for Rough Weather. Fashionable Daughter (preparing to go out).—"What are the probabilities for to-day, mamma?"

Mamma (looking over the paper).—"High easterly winds, with local rains."

Fashionable Daughter (to maid).—"Jane, you may get out my striped silk stockings and shoes."—Philadelphia Call.

About the Size of It.

It is stated that "the smallest book in the world is an edition of the sacred book of the Sikhs." Ah, Big Six, probably! But we always thought that was a pocketbook.—Burdette.

SELLING BONDS.

Treasurer Dalman Opens Nine Bids and the Securities are Sold at a Nice Premium.

The county treasurer's office was the scene of considerable bustle and hurry to-day. Capitalists and representatives of foreign banking houses swarmed the public place and chatted, figured and joked each other. County Treasurer Dalman, Auditor Griebel, County Attorney Bell and Commissioners Brannan, Hartman and Gloyd were behind the desk. At 12 o'clock, standard time Mr. Dalman declared bids closed and a breathless silence prevailed as the proposals were announced as follows:

Brewster, Cobb & Esterbrook, of Boston, bid 101 79-100 and accrued interest, or $203,963.60.

N. W. Harris & Co., of Chicago, bid $202,108.

S. A. Keane & Co., of Chicago, bid $201,886.

A. J. Weil, of St. Louis, bid $202,918.

Wm. A. Barnett, of Dayton, Ohio, bid $204,000.

Priston & Co., of Chicago, bid $201,125.

Stoddard & Co., of Indianapolis, bid $201,010.

Wm. P. Breen, agent, of Fort Wayne, bid $203,005.

James Cheney, of Fort Wayne, bid par for $200,000 bonds or 1/4 per cent. premium for fractions of $50,000.

The representative of S. A. Keane & Co., of Chicago, had a letter saying he would agree to beat the best bid in an open sale, and the county treasurer said the decision and result would be announced at 2 o'clock.

When the commissioners met after dinner Judge James Cheney offered $204,100 and W. P. Breen offered $204,210 for capitalists he represents. The commissioners did not deem it safe to go behind the sealed bids and decided to award the bonds to Wm. A. Barnett, of Dayton, Ohio, who gave a straight $4,000 premium over and above what the face of the bonds called for. All the bids given are in bulk and all over $200,000 represents the premium offered.

MRS. J. B. BARNES.

Wife of the General Master Mechanic of the Wabash, Dies Suddenly.

Mrs. J. B. Barnes, wife of General Master Mechanic Barnes, died this morning at 2:15. Mrs. Barnes has been in delicate health for the past ten years, suffering from exhaustion of body. Only two weeks ago she was so low that little hopes were entertained of her recovery, but the family physician, Dr. Virgil, brought her through all right and the lady made the remark to her sister, Mrs. Tyrell, two days ago, that she was feeling better than she had for years. So well was she that at 1:30 yesterday she took a drive through the city, returning at 3 o'clock, and before retiring she complained that she had a headache, but nothing was feared from that source. She was but about two hours in bed when she called to her sister, Mrs. Tyrell, who was sleeping up stairs.

Mrs. Tyrell responded to the call quickly and was shocked to find Mrs. Barnes prostrate on the floor and entirely unconscious. The lady never spoke from that moment until she expired at 2:12 this morning. General Foreman Frank Tyrell telegraphed the sad news to Mr. Barnes, who answered that he would leave at 5 a. m. on a special train arriving here at 1:05 p. m.

The lady died from paralysis. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes have been married about twenty-two years and had one daughter, who died quite young. Afterwards they adopted a child, who is now a young lady, sixteen years of age. Mrs. Barnes was a very estimable lady and highly cultivated. She was dearly beloved and a host of friends mourn her death.

Her funeral will probably take place Monday. She will be buried in Lindenwood cemetery. She was forty-four years of age.

The local billiard tournament opened at the Home last night before quite an assembly. Mr. M. V. Walsh was umpire and C. E. Read scorer. R. L. Smith defeated Harry Friend, 100 to 45 points. W. P. Cooper defeated Alex Staub, 100 to 84 points. To-night Messrs. W. P. Cooper and Ed. Hunsaker, and Messrs. R. L. Smith and Alex Staub will cross cues.

General Black Visits the Indiana Agency--Poultry Exhibitors Are Not Paid.

AT INDIANAPOLIS.

The News There is of Much Interest.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 15.—Gen. John C. Black, commissioner of pensions, is in the city, en route to Washington. He was averse to an interview, owing, as he said, to limited time. This afternoon he visited the pension office, chaperoned by Colonel Zollinger.

The long fight between Indiana stone and its various rivals for position in the Pittsburg building ended yesterday by the decision of Secretary Manning in favor of granite. He has written a letter to Supervising Architect Bell, notifying him that he has decided that, under the circumstances, granite should be selected for the entire building. This "knocks out" the Indiana quarries at Bedford, from which the stone was originally selected.

The exhibitors at the poultry and dog show at the Meridian rink, which has just closed, who were fortunate enough to get premiums on their display are raising a howl because they have not been paid. The managers of the show are Shelbyville men, and they have given unequivocal promises that the premiums will be paid in due time, but this is not satisfactory. They charged an entrance fee of $2 for each day; $1 for each fowl competing for a prize, and the exhibitors claim that they realized $1,200 in this way alone, besides about $100 a day from the sale of admission tickets.

The democratic federal officials, whose nominations have not yet been confirmed, are feeling better this morning, thanks, since they have heard that the nominations of Pension Agent Zollinger and Postmaster A. C. Crampton, of Delphi, both members of the state central committee and in that way "offensive partisans," as the republican senators claim, have been confirmed. Several party papers have been making a fight against them on this score. Messrs. Hawkins, Bannister and Forrey, the three other members of the committee, who have federal appointments, have not yet been confirmed, but are certain that they will be.

THE SHATTERED CHURCH.

Continuation of the Coroner's Inquiry Into the Explosion --The Church Prelates and Trustees Meet.

The explosion at St. Mary's church continues to be the absorbing topic. Dr. J. M. Dinnen, the coroner, took the sworn statements of Rev. Father Oechtering and Rev. Father Romer, of the ill fated church. The reverend gentlemen testified that Mr. Evans, the engineer, was sober and reliable and highly recommended as a machinist.

When Rev. Father Oechtering came home yesterday and viewed the ruins he wept like a child. He was agreeably surprised when he reached home and found a letter from Hen. Charles McCulloch saying that the gentlemen of the Hamilton National bank had placed $500 to his credit in their vaults and it is at Father Oechtering's disposal whenever he needs it to assist in rebuilding his church.

There was a meeting of the church trustees last night and it was decided to hold a meeting of the parishioners Sunday afternoon at the school hall to decide on a course of action. Some contractors think the front wall, steeple and roof can be saved and the meeting Sunday will determine whether to pursue the last advice or build an entirely new structure.

Dr. J. M. Dinnen heard the testimony of Joe Willard to-day. The young man picked his sister up and related her quick death. The child "never opened her eyes nor spoke a word after she was hurt," said he.

Workmen are excavating the boiler

and experts will examine it to-morrow in the presence of the coroner. It is now doubtful that any insurance can be recovered as the policies barred liability for boiler explosions.

NOTES.

Anthony Evans, who was killed by the explosion, formerly worked in the Pittsburg shops, and twelve years ago when a boiler there exploded he sat on a bench near by, but escaped injury.

The congregation of St. Mary's church will have Sunday services, conducted by Rev. Father Oechtering, at 8:45 next Sunday morning in the cathedral.

The walls of the church are propped up and cannot fall. Workmen will tumble the brick down immediately.

The funeral of the unfortunate Anthony Evans occurs to-morrow morning, at 9 o'clock, from his home on Hoagland avenue. Mr. Evans leaves his wife and family comfortably fixed. He owned much property.

Peculiarities of Congressmen.

Some of the new Congressmen require a good deal of room, but they will be able to get along with less presently. A member is never so wise or important as on the day he arrives in Washington, but the atmosphere absorbs much of his size, and by evaporation he subsides to his natural dimensions. It was always so, and will be forever. An employee of the House was telling me about a new Congressman from the South who came walking into the hall, looked around for a while with an air of ownership, as if he had just bought the Capitol and was pleased with his purchase, and then inquired which the vacant desks were. When told they were all vacant he seemed to be gratified, and asked how they were assigned.

"Every member selects for himself," was the reply.

"Which have been taken?"

"None. Nobody has been in to choose yet."

"Waal, that's lucky, ain't it; so I'm the first man on the ground," and walking away with a satisfied air he picked out a seat nearly in front of the clerk's desk and observed: "I reckon I'll roost here."

The word was passed around among the messengers and pages, and, as usual, they were ready for a lark. A card was cut, upon which the new honorable wrote his name, and then one of the boys shoved it in the frame made for the purpose. Next they showed him to the stationery room, where he inquired into the perquisites of a legislator, and seemed greatly pleased at the idea of having so much fine letter paper and sundries at his disposal. He gave each of the pages a pocket-knife, and the stationery clerk put him up an assortment of all kinds and sizes of paper and envelopes, which he packed away in his desk. Then he sat down to write a letter home and tell the folks all about it. Next week he will discover what the boys were laughing at. I heard about another member of the freshman class at the Capitol who discovered the House restaurant, ordered a square meal, ate it with great gusto, and was then knocked out of his chair by having a cashier's check presented to him. He had previously taken a bath and offered to pay for it, but was told that it was a free government institution. He naturally concluded that a great nation that bathed its servants and paid men to rub them down fed them as well, and thought the waiter was trying to humbug him. "Isn't this the members' restaurant?" he asked. "Yes, sir," replied the waiter. "Well, I'm a member from So-and-So." "Can't help that, sir; members pay just like other folks." He hauled out his wallet deliberately and settled the bill, but it will take some time for the idea to get through his head.—Washington Capital.

MURDERERS

Pay the Penalty of Their Crimes at the End of Ropes.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
BELLEVILLE, Ill., Jan. 15.—Noah Merriam, the wife murderer, was hanged to-day at 11:25 a. m. Previous to the execution he admitted having killed his wife and confessed the murder of a woman peddler in East St. Louis six years ago, but whose name he would not reveal. While the noose was being adjusted about his neck he fainted and it required three men to hold him in position over the trap. The trap was then sprung and the man died in twelve minutes, after suffering most terrible agony.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 15.—Charles Wilson was hanged this morning at 7:45, for the murder of his river steamer mate some time ago. He remained calm to the last, still protesting his innocence.

Beaumont, Texas, Jan. 15.—Wm. Madison, colored, was hanged to-day for the murder of Albert Smith, also colored last summer.

A BIG BLAZE.

A Carriage Factory Burns--Loss, $275,000.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
CINCINNATI, Jan. 15.—Hiram W. Davis & Co.'s carriage manufactory at Eliot Wade and Denman streets, burned this morning. The loss is estimated at $150,000; insurance, $100,000. The watchman discovered the fire in the basement, where it is supposed to have caught from shavings. Mr. Davis values the whole property, stock and material at $275,000. Owing to precautions against fire, a portion of the building was saved with considerable portion of the stock and material. The factory was working full time and had many orders ahead. Two hundred and fifty hands are thrown out of employment.

CAR WORKS BURNED.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Jan. 15.—The Beaver Falls car works, foundry and machine shops burned to the ground this morning, together with the Chinese headquarters and every building in the square facing on Sixth avenue except the old mansion house. The loss is very heavy.

THE MARKETS.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
New York, Jan. 15.—The stock market opened weak and lower, first prices showing a decline of 1/4 to 1/2 per cent. from last evening's closing figures, but in the early dealings, although there was some feverishness, the movement generally was in favor of high prices and showed gains during the hour of 1/4 to 1/2 per cent. Towards 11 o'clock the market became steady.

EPITHELIOMA OR SKIN CANCER.

For seven years I suffered with a cancer on my face. All the time I was applying the powder to the place, but the place continued to grow, finally extending into my nose, from which came a yellowish discharge very offensive in character. It was also inflamed, and annoyed me a great deal. About eight months ago I was in Atlanta, at the house of a friend, who strongly recommended the use of Swift's Specific. I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was successful, and began its use. The influence of the medicine at first was to somewhat aggravate the sore, but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began to improve after the first few bottles. My general health has greatly improved. I am stronger, and able to do any kind of work. The cancer on my face began to decrease and the ulcer to heal, until there is not a vestige of it left—only a little scar marks the place where it had been. I am ready to answer all questions relative to this cure.

Mrs. JOSEPH A. McDONALD, Atlanta, Ga., August 11, 1885.

I have had a cancer on my face for some years, extending from one cheek bone across the nose to the other. It has given me great deal of pain, at times burning and itching to such an extent that it was almost unbearable. I commenced using Swift's Specific in May, 1885, and have used eight bottles. It has given me the greatest relief by removing the inflammation and restoring my general health.

W. BARNES, Knoxville, Iowa, Sept. 8, 1885.

For many years I was a sufferer with cancer of the nose, and having been cured by the use of S. S. S., I feel constrained by a sense of duty to suffering humanity to make this statement of my case. With the 11th bottle the cancer began to heal rapidly and soon disappeared, and for several months there has been no appearance of a sore of any kind on my nose or face, neither is my nose at all tender to the touch. I have taken about two dozen bottles S. S. S., and am soundly cured, and I know that S. S. S. effected the cure after every known remedy was tried and had failed.

ROBERT SMEDLEY, Fort Gaines, Ga., May 1, 1885.

I had heard of the wonderful cures of Swift's Specific, and resolved to try it. I commenced taking it in April, 1884. My general health was much improved, but the cancer which was in my breast continued to grow slowly but surely. The tumor grew and became quite heavy. I felt that I must either let it cut or die. But it commenced discharging quantities of almost black, thick blood. It continued to grow around the edges until February, when it was entirely healed up and well.

COCHESSETT, Plymouth Co., Mass., July 13, 1885.

Swift's Specific is entirely vegetable, and seems to cure cancers by forcing out the impurities from the blood.

THE AMERICAN OPERA.

Its Auspicious Opening at the Academy in New York

"The Taming of the Shrew"—A Goodly Company and a Fine Audience—The Chief Figures in the Company.

New York, Jan. 13.—America has its own opera at last. The eagle has been taught to sing as melodiously as any foreign bird that ever wore feathers. At last, after years of homage to Italy and Germany, we are on our own feet in the matter of music, and can stand without wobbling. We can produce the emotional lyric dramas with our own talent and in our own tongue, and do it well. We can go to the opera now without lying. We can understand and appreciate. The simplest of us can fit the words to the sound—a tremendous gain, surely.

The opening of this heretofore intact occurred at the Academy of Music on Monday night, the 4th inst. It was an event of great magnitude and very bad weather. Nobody minded the rain, however, for the old academy was filled with the most important human material the city could produce.

This new departure in the work of a woman, or women—several having assisted in the great work, Mrs. F. B. Thurber taking the lead. The project of American opera is Mrs. William S. Budge, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Richard Irwin, Mrs. Thomas W. Ward and others have helped bring the enterprise to its present status.

Mrs. Thurber's work in musical circles has been something extraordinary, and until recently has not been known to that presumably all-singing, all-dancing, all-dancing public. She has a large and independent income, a great part of which she devotes to the practical encouragement of musical projects. In addition to this she generously gives her time and efforts, frequently, it is said, taking upon herself the thankless task of management. It is also said that she furnished the capital for several musical campaigns, in which Theodore Thomas has been the chief figure and Charles E. Locke second.

She employs two secretaries to attend to the correspondence and other affairs which are the natural outgrowth of the important musical affairs in which she is interested. During the musical seasons she is constantly importuned by the strugglers in the musical field—singers or would-be singers, pianists, violinists, artists of much energy and poor luck—to lend her influence in procuring engagements, and sometimes to open her purse for the wolf of hunger roars unchecked in Bohemia. She fronts the callers, one at a time, in a back parlor devoted to business. The front parlor continually overflows with waiting applicants.

It is not generally known that Theodore Thomas' tour with the Wagner singers, Materna, Winkelmann and Scaria originated with her.

She is the wife of the well-known and successful pianist, and a devoted mother. But to the opening. As I said before, everybody was there, everybody who had diamonds and other operative accessories, for what woman can appreciate opera without covered shoulders, and what man could enjoy it in anything but the severest evening dress? So successful was this opening that the applause began with the rising of the curtain, and ended not until the going down thereof. Theodore Thomas was the conductor, of course. Who else could have done it? And he was so well pleased with the performance that, at its close, smiles chased each other over his face like streaks of sunshine in cloudland, and this wasn't his first experience in conducting opera, either. Look at him in the picture and see if he isn't as handsome and youthful as ever. The Sun, of this city, says that all lovers of honest, home-brewed music will endorse these words:

"In the hundreds of concerts which he has given, and which have reached from the Atlantic to the Pacific, Thomas has cultivated in thousands of Americans the love of music of a high class, and has done much for the musical education of the people. He undertakes now to provide the talent of American boys and girls with the sunshine of encouragement which it needs to develop in, and if he carries out the plan it will be a prouder work than anything that he has done before. By and by, when we have Patti of our own sending their voices up out of sight and basses with double basement and cellar voices, this picture will be graven in the hearts of proud mothers, and hung instead of the blue-home mottoes in the happy homes of genius all over the land."

Charles E. Locke, the manager, whose picture gives but a poor idea of his actual beauty, was born in Dayton, O., of Quaker blood. His happy parents destined him for the ministry, but he had strong leanings toward theatre, and at an early age began to haunt his uncle's opera house at Kansas City, to the complete amusement of his uncles. That the stage has, in this instance, robbed the ministry to its own advantage nobody doubts.

Kate Benson, soprano, who played in the role of Bianca, is a native of St. Louis, and has been five years a student in Germany. Alonzo E. Stoddard, who sang Hortensio, is a baritone from Massachusetts. W. H. Fessenden, tenor, the Lucio, is from Buffalo, and was graduated at Dartmouth college. He used to be in the Kellogg concert company. Lee (Petruchio) is a New Yorker, not yet 21 years old, and has been before the public as a singer ten years. He is a business high, and should take the chromo for perfect enunciation. Miss Emma Juch is almost an American. She was born in Vienna on the 4th of July—not this year, like Galatea—but not a great while ago. Annie Montague, soprano, is a Baltimorean. She has been with the Kellogg company, and with Strakosch in Italian opera. Charlotte Walker and Minnie Dillith are both Americans.

Jessie Bartlett Davis, first contralto, is an American. The other contraltos are Helen Dudley Campbell, Esther Jacobs, Mathilde Muellerbach and Mathilde Phillips. William Candidus, leading tenor, is a Philadelphian, who has fought in the war and sung abroad. Charles Turner, tenor, isn't an American, but he has done some powerful vocalizing on American soil. Charles H. Thompson and Albert Aulet are among the tenors. George Fox, baritone, is English, but he is not to blame for it. He has had both operatic and dramatic experience abroad, and is a composer.

Everybody known Myron W. Whitney, great in oratorio, a basso that makes the earth tremble. He began life in Massachusetts. He believes firmly in the continued success and growth of American opera. He attained his proficiency in oratorio in London. He has traveled with the Thomas orchestra, sung with the Boston Ideal company and at all the festivals east and west.

John Gilbert (basso), associated with Mr. Whitney, is a journalist as well as a singer, and an American. He has been with the Emma Abbott English Opera company. The American Opera company is not synonymous with the American School of Opera, recently started in this city, though Theodore Thomas is at the head of both. The organizations are distinct, but occupy common ground in the effort to educate Americans in musical art. The opera company will give opportunities to pupils of the school, as they are prepared for work from time to time.

One critic says: "The noble motive which stimulated the beginning of this operatic venture, as well as the commencement of a school which is now only the germ of what is destined ultimately to become a national conservatory of large proportions and ambitious intentions, cannot be too highly valued as the nucleus of a national growth, which will undoubtedly in time become equal in artistic results to that which any country in the world can boast. Americans are not deficient in any quality necessary to the development of a very high class of art manifestations. We are sensitive, imaginative, inventive, ambitious, persevering, and there is little reason to doubt that in future days this country will be the peer of any in the creation of musical works of lasting fame. As for executive ability, no nation is more gifted, either in voice or in general musical talent, than we, as is constantly being more clearly shown."

Yes, we are at last beginning to realize that our blessed mother tongue is good enough to sing, as well as talk and write in, and that a performance need not lack in artistic effect in consequence of the words being English.

Another critic says: "Foreign prima donnas have ruled us at the rate of $100,000 a year, and custom has chained us down to yelling 'Brava' at things we don't understand."

There is a strong belief that American opera will be successful. That in some respects it is superior to the Italian brand goes without saying. The chorus, particularly, is a step upward, and a big one.

Again, it has another strong hold on the good will of the people. It is a new and promising American industry. It opens the way for hundreds, perhaps thousands, of eager hands, as well as finished throats, to exercise themselves with hope of reward. It develops specialists in many lines of work, and suggests possibilities of stupendous successes in the future. The costumes are to be prepared. This requires archaeological lore and artistic sense, as well as good, reliable, old-fashioned industry. The opera of "Lohegrün" alone requires 900 costumes.

Scenic skill is needed, and numerous aids not visible to the naked eye will have a field in which to exercise their talents. All in all, this new-born child of American enterprise and talent has the good wishes of its kind-folk, and will doubtless have their substantial assistance in the future.

NEWSPAPER INVESTIGATION.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.,—The News—"A remarkable discovery made last winter, which involves a most important question,—that of public health, is being discussed by eminent physicians and public men. It is shown conclusively that throat and lung troubles can be cured without resorting to the use of morphia or opium,—a capital danger in the case of children. The Governor of Maryland and all the officials of that state endorse the remedy, and hospitals and charitable institutions in this and other cities use it with remarkable results. The remedy, which is only twenty-five cents a bottle, is Red Star Cough Cure. It is purely vegetable; it contains no poison or narcotics, and is a positive cure."

There is one thing nobody ever regrets—that is, the day they first adopted Parker's Tonic as their regular family medicine. Its range is so wide, and its good effects so sure, that nothing else, except good nursing, are needed in a great majority of cases. Buy it, try it, and afterwards it will not require any praise from us.

NERVOUS, DERELICTED MEN You are allowed a free trial of thirty days of the use of Dr. Dye's Celebrated Voltaic Belt, with Electric Suspensory Appliances for the speedy relief and permanent cure of Nervous Debility, loss of Vitality and Manhood and all kindred troubles. Also for many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred. Illustrated pamphlet with full information, terms, etc., mailed free by addressing Voltaic Belt Co., Marshall, Mich.

I expect to sail for Europe on the 28th inst., leaving this city by the 20th. I am anxious to have all business matters settled by that time. All persons knowing themselves indebted to me, whether for large or small amounts will please settle by the 18th at farthest.

W. H. MYERS, M. D.

In all constitutional and blood diseases, loss of appetite and nervous irritation are prominent symptoms, for which Nichols' Bark and Iron is the standard and infallible remedy.

rich gentleman of Paduah, named Baptista, Bianca is of the conventional pattern of well behaved, obedient and timid young women, but Katherine is a fury. Lucentio and Hortensio, two proper young gentlemen, love Bianca, but her father declares that she shall not marry until her elder sister is provided with a husband. The lovers are greatly put out at this unfavorable turn of events.

About this time Petruchio, with great wealth, and a will as strong as a Homeric demigod, comes along. He is tired of being wooed by women, and concludes that it would be capital pleasure to woo an unwilling maid. Petruchio has also a fertile brain. He at once puts the two discomfited lovers of Bianca in a position to go on with their wooing, something they were not brilliant enough to think of themselves. He induces them to disguise themselves as teachers and engage to instruct Bianca. This plot works and Lucentio is the successful suitor. Petruchio declares his intention of proposing to Katherine. Her father gives his consent, but the tug of war is in getting Katherine's consent. She is furious at his presumption, she refuses to accept his dismissal, and obstinately declares that he has been accepted, and fixed the wedding day. He keeps her waiting on the bridal morning, arrives late, indifferently clad, marries her and hustles her away before the wedding festivities have scarcely begun. "He subsequently breaks her temper and wins her affection," as one critic expresses it, two extraordinary things to do certainly, but all things are possible in opera, which frequently distinguishes itself by getting as far from nature as fiction can go.

ANNIHILATING A MUSICIAN.

The days preceding the wooing of the fiery Katherine were exciting ones for her attendants. She fairly annihilates a maid who is dressing her hair, and brings a music teacher to grief. The picture "Between Blasts," gives an idea of Miss Katherine enjoying a lull between the blasts of temper; another, entitled "Annihilating a Musician," represents a result of her displeasure. "The Shrew Brought to Terms" depicts a scene in the process of "taming."

The ballet was exceptionally fine; largely American, too. It danced into the hearts of the people, and once to the music of Rubenstein's "Alpine Capriccio." A large number of the corps de ballet, the premieres and the secondas are from Italy. Twelve are of the American school, some of whom are in the first line, and the thirty-six figurantes are Americans. It has been asserted that American genius has no leaning toward the ballet. It has had no encouragement. The principals, with but few exceptions, in this ballet are natives.

And as for the chorus, it was an improvement on the imported article. It consisted of fresh voices and fresh faces, and every member of it was as elegantly attired as the principal singers. Let us hope that the ugly, frayed and ragged choristers of sunny Italy will eventually be banished from the stage entirely.

THE SHREW BROUGHT TO TERMS.

The principals of the American Opera company are the products of a dozen states. Mme. L'Allemand, a leading soprano, was born in Syracuse, this state. She was never heard in this country until the opening night of the opera, when she appeared as Katherine. She studied in Paris, Dresden and Stuttgart, and has been one of the prominent coloratura singers of Europe. Miss Helene Hasterreiter, also a leading soprano, is a native of Louisville. Mr. Theodore Thomas is considered an American, if he did make a mistake of not being born on native soil.

Charles E. Locke, the manager, whose picture gives but a poor idea of his actual beauty, was born in Dayton, O., of Quaker blood. His happy parents destined him for the ministry, but he had strong leanings toward theatre, and at an early age began to haunt his uncle's opera house at Kansas City, to the complete amusement of his uncles. That the stage has, in this instance, robbed the ministry to its own advantage nobody doubts.

GEORGE A. LOAG,

The Daily Sentinel.

FRIDAY, JAN. 15, 1886.

THE CITY.

Joe Gessman visited at Huntington yesterday.

Mrs. Robert Ogden has returned from Huntington.

M. N. and Julius Nathan were at Lafayette yesterday.

Rev. A. B. Oechtering, of Mishawaka, cousin of the pastor of St. Mary's church, is in the city.

Messrs. W. Bash, W. H. Fleming and H. Rockhill, went to Steubenville, Ohio, this morning.

Col. C. E. Briant, Jacob Weber and Dr. Severance, of Huntington, were in the city last evening.

Messrs. James and William Wilkinson were registered at the Grand hotel, Indianapolis, yesterday.

Low Wallace yesterday got judgment for $408 against the Standard company in Judge O'Rourke's court.

Ellis Searies and others, of this city took in a masquerade at the skating rink at Huntington last night.

J. H. P. Hnghart, the secretary of the Grand Rapids and Indiana, has gone to Pittsburg on railroad business.

George Simmons, of Hudson, Indiana, sold over fifteen hundred pounds of hives and tallow at Fort Wayne this week.

F. I. Maybury, traveling passenger agent of the Grand Rapids and Indiana, is in Fort Wayne on business connected with the road.

Edward Sidel, agent for the Buffalo German Insurance company, has Wm. L. Thompson at $500. J. F. Rodabaugh filed the suit.

The city band concert occurs next Wednesday at the Temple. This is the grandest musical event of the season and will attract a big house.

Argument on the counter claim of the Fort Wayne Jany Electric Light company vs. the Jany company was had yesterday before Judge Taylor, at Indianapolis.

"It is presumable to believe that Captain Iddings will get no more free tickets to Fort Wayne at the expense of the newly appointed postmaster of this city," says the Keudallville News.

A four months old child of A. B. Tonoley, owner of the South Wayne poultry yards, died yesterday, very suddenly. The little girl was the only child and the parents are almost prostrated with grief.

Rev. W. Lynch, of Fort Wayne, will preach at the M. E. church, in Angola, next Sunday morning and evening. Business meeting for the election of trustees will be held there on Monday.

Huntington gossips are all agog over the actions of a well known jewelry man, who is married and has a family, and the wife of another prominent citizen. This, however, it is said is not the only case of this kind in our neighboring city.

Brakeman Hughes, with Conductor W. Hockaday, on Wabash train 72, the local freight running between Fort Wayne and Toledo, had a finger smashed while coupling cars in the stone quarry track at White House station. He went to the Peru hospital for treatment.

The Pennsylvania lines are curtailing expenses at Chicago, and have dropped a number of employees. Among these are Captain Landmark, who was steamship agent, of the company for many years at Chicago, at Waukegan, passenger agent, and Frank L. Wood, city passenger agent.

H. J. McSheehy, of Logansport, who has been connected with the signal service for the past six years, has received word from Washington that he had been promoted from sergeant to second lieutenant, and that it was the intention to make the office at that place first class in the service.

The Lake Shore company has issued an order that all employees on the road shall pay their fare the same as other passengers when they travel, if the object of the visit is for pleasure. But if they go on business for the company then passes will be furnished. This is pinning the men down pretty close.

During the extremely bad weather the road masters on the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific railway have, as a matter of safety, placed upon the line of the road night watchmen, whose duty it will be to go over the sections before each passenger train is due with a hand ax to cut away any trees that may have fallen on the track, examine carefully all the switches and look for broken rails.

Andrew Hagen, state oil inspector, has made his annual report to the governor. It shows that during the last year 1,093 barrels of oil were rejected—an excess of 857 over any previous year, which shows well for the efficiency of the inspector's employees. During the year 129,601 barrels of oil were inspected, the fees on which amounted to $10,657.73, and the expenses of the office were $273.50.

Judge R. S. Taylor returned from Indianapolis yesterday.

Isaac Stratton and Lydia J. Crawford have been licensed to wed.

There was no police court this morning and no business in the justice courts.

G. H. Perry and R. F. Kinnaird were registered at the Grand hotel, Indianapolis, yesterday.

B. L. Brown, formerly prescriptionist with C. B. Woodworth & Co., is in the city en route to Kansas City.

Wm. M. Reigner got judgment in the superior court to-day for $600 against M. N. Jacobs and Louis Heilbroner.

Mr. John Lillie, jr., is in poor health and will shortly leave for the Island of Nassau, in the West Indies, to remain some time.

Joseph Scheffer and wife arrived last night from Nashville, Tenn., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Scheffer's father, Antoine Evans.

Albert Markey, of the Wabash freight office, fell yesterday and sprained his ankle so badly that he will be laid up for some time.

Geo. W. Hawkins, Indianapolis; O. Kendall and A. L. Spitzer, Toledo, and Wm. A. Barnett, Dayton, are guests at the Avenue house.

Mr. Frank Mensch, the mail carrier, was summoned to New York last night by a telegram announcing that his mother was dying.

W. L. Swift, G. Straith, H. H. Brandon, Chicago; J. Bele, C. S. Gray, Toledo, and George F. Worts, New York, are at the Robinson.

Jim Neis, who formerly traveled for Carnahan, Hanna & Co., is in the city visiting friends. Mr. Neis is now in the shoe business at Battle Creek, Mich.

Fred C. Boltz will receive the Louisiana lottery list to-morrow. These numbers captured the capital prizes: No. 24,945, $75,000; 84,321, $25,000; 70,658, $10,000.

George Rabus, the popular young enterer of this city, was elected a vice-president of the United Custom Cutters' association at their last meeting held in Cleveland, Ohio.

Joe Murphy and his party played at Lima last night. The manager of the Joe Murphy company tells us that "A Midnight Marriage" is one of the finest things on the road.

The Bucyrus polo team will play the Princess team at the Princess rink this evening and Saturday evening. The Bucyrus team has a great reputation and the Fort Wayne boys will try to knock them out.

"It is said that Sion S. Bass post G. A. R. at Fort Wayne, has the largest membership of any post in the United States, and of the number, the democrats have a majority of nearly 300," says the Ligonier Banner.

Col. Geo. Humphrey and a force of men are cleaning the Mayer house property for a fine store building to be erected by Mr. J. B. White. The building will front on Wayne street and run back sixty feet along the "bus barn."

Politics is opening up brisk in Wells county. Two candidates are announced for county auditor, six for clerk, ten for recorder, five for treasurer, one for sheriff, two for surveyor and four for commissioner. The primary election is held February 6.

At Larwill, Ind., on the Pittsburg road, a wheel on the engine of a freight train broke down, which caused the engine and two cars to leave the track. The wheel was replaced by a new one and after a delay of two and a half hours the train pulled out again. The damage was slight.

The services at the Second Presbyterian church, conducted by Rev. H. M. Payter, are beginning to attract much attention and interest on the part of the public as well as the congregation. The services to-day are at 2:30 and 7:30. All are welcome to both the afternoon and evening services.

The Fort Wayne rifles met at Sion S. Bass post hall last evening and decided to use the West Point gray uniform and will contract with a Fort Wayne house. They have also determined to give a grand benefit ball on February 22 next, and expect to use the old Masonic lodge hall for that purpose.

The building at Peru which has been used by the officials of the bridge and building department of the Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific railway, as an office, was torn down last week and removed to Andrews, where it will be erected and used for the same purpose, as that place will hereafter be the headquarters for all the lumber and building supplies pertaining to that department.

The trustees of the new First church have postponed the sale of bonds and invite attention to the investment. Not more than $20,000 of the bonds will likely be sold, as that amount will be sufficient to complete the church unless the trustees decide to complete the spire, in which case it will require the full amount of the bonds authorized to be issued, viz: $25,000 will be required to be sold. After the bonds are sold, the fees on which are paid, there will be only a very small amount of the $25,000 to be provided for.

BRADY & GARWOOD.

They Propose to Have a Play

House at Detroit to Make

Their Circuit.

The Detroit Free Press has an interview with Mr. Brady, of the firm of Brady & Garwood, proprietors of the Academy of Music here, in which Mr. Brady said: "Yes, sir, we intend to build a theater in Detroit. I came over here to further look after the matter."

"What kind of a theater would you run?"

"A popular place of amusement—good attractions at low prices."

"How large a house will you build?"

"Large enough to seat 2,500 persons. Of course it would be of the regular theatre shape, raised seats, etc. I have just made Mr. Whitney an offer for the seats, stage, scenery, galleries and inside fixtures generally of his house, and I am inclined to think he will accept it."

"Will you continue your Toledo and Fort Wayne theaters?"

"Yes, we want to have three or four houses and play the same attractions at all of them. I look upon Detroit as a good point. It is a large city, rapidly growing and ought to support two or three good theaters."

FOR MURDER.

Jacobs, Who Killed a Man up

North, on Trial.

The Jacobs murder case was called for trial in the Angola circuit court yesterday. The prosecution will be conducted by Prosecutor Peterson and E. A. Bratton, and Messrs. Woodhull & Brown will appear for the defense. There is no question of the prisoner's guilt but it is expected that his counsel will plead previous good character in mitigation and will make a vigorous effort to secure as light punishment as is consistent with law and the terrible crime that hurried his victim form time into eternity. A number of witnesses from Huntington and Allen counties, the prisoner's former home, will testify in the case. A special venire of 72 persons has been drawn from which to select a jury of twelve to try the murder case.

Real Estate Transfers.

Olds Bros., real estate agents, room No. 8, Foster block, report the following recorded real estate transfers:

Otto W. Groes to John G. Gutermuth, by warranty deed, lot 47, Rockhill and Nelson's addition, for $1,050.

Aaron S. Erskin to Amos Warner, by warranty deed, part of section 5, Cedar Creek township, for $175.

S. C. Lumbard to John A. and Malissa J. Tracey, by warranty deed, lot 84 Huestia and Taylor's addition, for $150.

Harriet L. Sterlin et al. to Sarah J. Sheaffer, by quit claim deed, lot 30, Wallen.

William B. Howard to Ferdinand Bandler et al., by warranty deed, part of section 9, Jefferson township, for $4,285.

William Fleming to F. H. Hobbs, by quit claim deed, eighty acres in section 22, Milan township, for $1.

John Eby to F. H. Hobbs, by quit claim deed, eighty acres in section 22, Milan township for $1.

Samuel F. Beneler to George Beneler, by quit claim deed, twenty acres in section 7, Milan township for $300.

"A Midnight Marriage."

Mr. William Redmond and Mrs. Thomas Barry deserve public commendation for presenting, during this deplorable period of farces and sensational dramas, a play romantic in tone, sparkling and exciting in action, and with intelligently conceived, designed and interpreted. The play is one of intense interest and this interest gathers its strength, not from trashy sentiment, sensational situations and unchaste emotions, but from a legitimate plot founded upon historic events, portrayed by excellent dialogue, correct and handsome costumes and excellent stage mountings. The play will be the attraction at the Temple opera house to-morrow night.

A Thrifty Railroad.

John Burns, who is an employe in the engine department on the Wabash at Andrews, raffled off a cow at two o'clock last Saturday. One hundred tickets had been printed; and were sold at fifty cents each. The lucky number was ticket seventy-four, which was held by John King, of the car-repairing force. Mr. Burns some time ago purchased a tract of land containing twenty acres, in Allen county opposite Prairie Switch, on the south side. By selling his cow, applying some of his wages he, had laid by and borrowing a small amount he is able to lift the mortgage on the place. The farm cost him $1,000.

They Were Even.

Husband—"Here's a new wrinkle; ladies' silk stockings have snakes on 'em."

Wife—"Yes, I know. I have just bought a pair of that kind of hose."

H—"What, with snakes on 'em?"

W—"Yes."

H—"Then we're all right. I can drink as much as I please now."

W—"What do you mean?"

H—"Well, you see, if you have snakes on your stockings you can't find fault with the quality of the drink, because you're in my boots."—Hartford Courer.

The Fort Wayne Sentinel.

ESTABLISHED 1833.

FRIDAY EVENING, JANUARY 15, 1886.

PRICE THREE CENTS

CONGRESS.

The House Alone Struggles with Business.

Republican Senators Hold a Caucus and Say Removed Officers Must be Heard.

And Know Just Why They Were Turned Out of Good, Fat Federal Offices.

REPUBLICAN SENATORS

Hold a Caucus and Decide on Future Action.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The republican senators met in caucus to-day to compare views with regard to the right of the senate to information as to the president's reasons for making removals of officers. There was a unanimous concurrence in the opinion that removed officials have the right to know whether they were removed for political reasons or mal-administration of their trusts, and that it is the senate's duty to secure this information, if possible.

WASHINGTON.

The Senate not in Session—House Proceedings.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 15.—The senate was not in session to-day, having adjourned yesterday until Monday.

Mr. Black introduced a bill repealing so much of the act of June 9, 1879, as provided for exchange and redemption of subsidiary coin. Referred.

A joint resolution allowing the discharged employees of the house one month's extra pay, was defeated: Yeas, 71; nays, 189. The house then resumed the consideration of the presidential succession bill and its passage was advocated by Dibble, of South Carolina.

NOTES.

Ex-senator Menzies arrived yesterday, and was a caller at the white house, with Ex-senator McDonald and Colonel Matson.

Secretary Lamar, in the matter of the Bell telephone patent, asks the attorney general to proceed with a thorough investigation, in the name and at the expense of the government, in order to ascertain if a patent has been obtained by fraud or issued for an invention not patented.

Despicable Work of Prominent Persons.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.
New York, N. Y., Jan. 15.—The Times this morning publishes a special from Charleston, W. Va., saying that "there is excitement here over a discovery that some of the most prominent citizens in the town are now and have for years past been organized into a regular society for the destruction of property by fire. Arrests have been made and others will follow in a few days."

LOCAL LINES.

Mrs. Cass Hunter went to Hantertown to-day to visit relatives.

May Bennett was fined $15 by Justice Ryan for resorting to a house of ill fame.

Emil Altman was committed to jail for whipping Hugh Stewart, the constable.

Bernhard Weber paid $100 into the county treasury to-day for a liquor license.

John Rupeal sues Wm. Baker for $100. S. H. Bloomhoff is attorney for the claimant.

Charles Rosenberger sues Charles Nathan for $100. J. R. Bittinger filed the paper.

The Knights of St. John did not elect officers last night, but will meet for the purpose again Monday night.

Mr. J. T. Rothbaugh was not sued for $1,100 yesterday, as THE SENTINEL stated, but John Rohrbach was.

Hon. and Mrs. Hugh McCulloch attended President Cleveland's first state dinner at the white house last night.

Wilhelmina Lange got judgment for $400 against Wm. Krohn, who deceived the girl and is the father of her child.

Mr. Tom Munim is now duly installed as transfer mail agent at the south depot. Captain Lewis was relieved this morning.

There are English stork calls in the track of the Wabash road which have been laid nineteen years and they show but little sign of wear.

Capt. J. B. White has given two acres of land on the Maumee road to the Baptist church for the erection thereon of a Baptist ministers' home.

Governor and Mrs. Gray gave a brilliant reception at Indianapolis last night. Miss Georgie Fleming, of this city, was present elegantly attired.

The funeral services of Bertie Willard will be held at the Berry street M. E. church at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, leaving the house, No. 45 Madison street, at 1:30. Friends of the family are invited without further notice.

Mr. John Thieme, who with his father Mr. Andy Thieme, operates the Broadway grocery celebrated the anniversary of his birthday night before last by giving a big party to his friends. The occasion was exceedingly pleasant.

Mr. James H. Destreux, a former resident of this city, has returned and will make this place his future home. Mr. Destreux is a fourth cousin of General Lafayette and was one of the invited guests of the late Yorktown centennial celebration.

The indications for the lower lake region, as reported by the weather bureau at Washington to THE SENTINEL, are as follows: Warmer weather, increasing cloudiness with local showers turning into rain, winds generally southerly preceded by easterly winds in eastern portion, falling barometer.

The Academy was crowded to the doors last night and Messrs. Hughs and Ward are arousing the enthusiasm that characterized the old Murphy revival. The evangelists tell terrible tales of the destitution and misery as results of alcoholism. Large numbers of young and old men were moved to tears by the pitiful tales and responded to the invitation to sign the pledge and make men of themselves. The Baptist church choir assisted by a strong and well drilled chorus of forty persons under Prof. Woolsey furnished excellent music. These meetings are growing intensely popular and are doing an immense amount of good. Everybody is invited to-night and will be made welcome.

The Church of the Presidents.

For a great many years St. John's Church, at Washington, has been known as the church home of the Presidents. It is a quaint little structure on H street, directly opposite Lafayette Square and the White House. Ever since the church was built a pew was reserved for the Chief Magistrate. In cases where the Presidents happened to be of some other religious faith it has been customary for the President to pay the pew rent as though he attended.

Grant did it, although he was a Methodist. Hayes was also a Methodist, but it is perhaps needless to add that he did not burden the financial officers of the church with the trouble of cashing any of his checks while he was the occupant of the White House. Garfield was one of the old fashioned Campbellites, but he kept up the good old custom. Arthur is a member of the Episcopal Church, and he was a regular attendant at St. John's. Mr. Cleveland hires a pew in Dr. Sunderland's Presbyterian Church, but it is said that he, too, has notified the officers at St. John's that he will be responsible for the rent of the President's pew. While Mr. Cleveland sits under the ministrations of a Presbyterian, three of his Cabinet, Messrs. Manning, Endicott and Vilas, have rented pews at St. John's and attend the services regularly. —Towns, in Boston Traveller.

A Matter of Taste.

Young Lady.—We had a delightful time at Music Hall last evening, Mr. Dunley. It was a Meyerbeer night, you know. Are you fond of Meyerbeer?

Mr. Dunley (hesitatingly).—Yes, out I think I would just as soon have Milwaukee. —New York Sun.

Carlyle as a Schoolmaster.

Jonathan Findlay, now a resident of Montreal, Canada, was more than sixty years ago a pupil of Carlyle's, who, Mr. Findlay says, was a cruel tyrant, ruling a class of trembling boys with a rod of iron. He was rough and uncouth in his appearance, and no one suspected that within him were the elements of a great and successful writer.

Do not be disappointed if the virtues of your friends run not like machinery in the grooves which have been made for them.

She Prepared for Rough Weather.—Fashionable Daughter (preparing to go out).—"What are the probabilities for to-day, mamma?"

Mamma (looking over the paper).—"High easterly winds, with local rains." Fashionable Daughter (to maid).—"Jane, you may get out my striped silk stockings and shoes." —Philadelphia Call.

About the Size of It.

It is stated that "the smallest book in the world is an edition of the sacred book of the Bible." Ah, big six, probably! But we always thought that was a pocketbook. —Burlington.

SELLING BONDS.

Treasurer Dalman Opens Nine Bids and the Securities are Sold at a Nice Premium.

The county treasurer's office was the scene of considerable bustle and hurry to-day. Capitalists and representatives of foreign banking houses swarmed the public place and chatted, figured and joked each other. County Treasurer Dalman, Auditor Griebel, County Attorney Bell and Commissioners Brannan, Hurman and Gloyd were behind the desk. At 12 o'clock, standard time Mr. Dalman declared bids closed and a breathless silence prevailed as the proposals were announced as follows:

Stoddard & Co., of Indianapolis, bid $201,010.

Wm. P. Breen, agent, of Fort Wayne, bid $203,005.

James Cheney, of Fort Wayne, bid par for $200,000 bonds or 1 per cent. premium for fractions of $50,000.

The representative of S. A. Kenne & Co., of Chicago, had a letter saying he would agree to beat the best bid in an open sale, and the county treasurer said the decision and result would be announced at 2 o'clock.

When the commissioners met after dinner Judge James Cheney offered $204,100 and W. P. Breen offered $204,310 for capitalists he represents. The commissioners did not deem it safe to go behind the sealed bids and decided to award the bonds to Wm. A. Barnett, of Dayton, Ohio, who gave a straight $4,000 premium over and above what the face of the bonds called for. All the bids given are in bulk and all over $200,000 represents the premium offered.

MRS. J. B. BARNES.

Wife of the General Master Mechanic of the Wabash, Dies Suddenly.

Mrs. J. B. Barnes, wife of General Master Mechanic Barnes, died this morning at 2:15. Mrs. Barnes has been in delicate health for the past ten years, suffering from exhaustion of body. Only two weeks ago she was so low that little hopes were entertained of her recovery, but the family physician, Dr. Virgil, brought her through all right and the lady made the remark to her sister, Mrs. Tyrrell, two days ago, that she was feeling better than she had for years. So well was she that at 1:30 yesterday she took a drive through the city, returning at 3 o'clock, and before retiring she complained that she had a headache, but nothing was feared from that source. She was but about two hours in bed when she called to her sister, Mrs. Tyrrell, who was sleeping up stairs.

Mrs. Tyrrell responded to the call quickly and was shocked to find Mrs. Barnes prostrate on the floor and entirely unconscious. The lady never spoke from that moment until she expired at 2:15 this morning. General Foreman Frank Tyrrell telegraphed the sad news to Mr. Barnes, who answered that he would leave at 5 a. m. on a special train arriving here at 1:05 p. m.

The lady died from paralysis. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes have been married about twenty-two years and had one daughter, who died quite young. Afterwards they adopted a child, who is now a young lady, sixteen years of age. Mrs. Barnes was a very estimable lady and highly cultivated. She was dearly beloved and a host of friends mourn her death.

Her funeral will probably take place Monday. She will be buried in Lindenwood cemetery. She was forty-four years of age.

The local billiard tournament opened at the home last night before quite an assembly. Mr. M. V. Walsh was umpire and C. E. Rinal scorer. R. L. Smith defeated Harry Friend, 100 to 45 points. W. P. Cooper defeated Alex Stahl, 100 to 81 points. To-night Messrs. W. P. Cooper and Ed. Hansen, and Messrs. R. L. Smith and Alex Stahl will cross cues.

Nothing but superlative intrinsic merit can account for the phenomenal reputation achieved, in so short a time, by Salvation Oil. It kills pain. Price twenty-five cents a bottle.

General Black Visits the Indiana Agency—Poultry Exhibitors Are Not Paid.

AT INDIANAPOLIS.

The News There is of Much Interest.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 15.—Gen. John C. Black, commissioner of pensions, is in the city, en route to Washington. He was averse to an interview, owing, as he said, to limited time. This afternoon he visited the pension office, accompanied by Colonel Zollinger.

The long fight between Indiana stone and its various rivals for position in the Pittsburg building ended yesterday by the decision of Secretary Manning in favor of granite. He has written a letter to Supervising Architect Bell, notifying him that he has decided that, under the circumstances, granite should be selected for the entire building. This "knocks out" the Indiana quarries at Bedford, from which the stone was originally selected.

The exhibitors at the poultry and dog show at the Meridian rink, which has just closed, who were fortunate enough to get premiums on their display are raising a howl because they have not been paid. The managers of the show are Shelbyville men, and they have given unconditional promises that the premiums will be paid in due time, but this is not satisfactory. They charged an entrance fee of $2 for each day; $1 for each fowl competing for a prize, and the exhibitors claim that they realized $1,300 in this way alone, besides about $100 a day from the sale of admission tickets.

The democratic federal officials, whose nominations have not yet been confirmed, are feeling better this morning, thanks, since they have heard that the nominations of Pension Agent Zollinger and Postmaster A. C. Crampton, of Delphi, both members of the state central committee and in that way "offensive partisans," as the republican senators claim, have been confirmed. Several party papers have been making a fight against them on this score. Messrs. Hawkins, Bannister and Forrey, the three other members of the committee, who have federal appointments, have not yet been confirmed, but are certain that they will be.

THE SHATTERED CHURCH.

Continuation of the Coroner's Inquiry Into the Explosion —The Church Prelates and Trustees Meet.

The explosion at St. Mary's church continues to be the absorbing topic. Dr. J. M. Dinnen, the coroner, took the sworn statements of Rev. Father Oechtering and Rev. Father Romer, of the ill fated church. The reverend gentlemen testified that Mr. Evans, the engineer, was sober and reliable and highly recommended as a machinist.

When Rev. Father Oechtering came home yesterday and viewed the ruins he wept like a child. He was agreeably surprised when he reached home and found a letter from Hon. Charles McCulloch saying that the gentlemen of the Hamilton National bank had placed $500 to his credit in their vaults and it is at Father Oechtering's disposal whenever he needs it to assist in rebuilding his church.

There was a meeting of the church trustees last night and it was decided to hold a meeting of the parishioners Sunday afternoon at the school hall to decide on a course of action. Some contractors think the front wall, steeple and roof can be saved and the meeting Sunday last will determine whether to pursue the last advice or build an entirely new structure.

Dr. J. M. Dinnen heard the testimony of Joe Willard to-day. The young man picked his sister up and related her quick death. The child "never opened her eyes nor spoke a word after she was hurt," said he.

Workmen are excavating the boiler

and experts will examine it to-morrow in the presence of the coroner.

It is now doubtful that any insurance can be recovered as the policies barred liability for boiler explosions.

NOTES.

Anthony Evans, who was killed by the explosion, formerly worked in the Pittsburg shops, and twelve years ago when a boiler there exploded he sat on a bench near by, but escaped injury.

The congregation of St. Mary's church will have Sunday services, conducted by Rev. Father Oechtering, at 8:45 next next Sunday morning in the cathedral.

The walls of the church are propped up and cannot fall. Workmen will tumble the brick down immediately.

The funeral of the unfortunate Anthony Evans occurs to-morrow morning, at 9 o'clock, from his home on Hoegland avenue. Mr. Evans leaves his wife and family comfortably fixed. He owned much property.

Peculiarities of Congressmen.

Some of the new Congressmen require a good deal of room, but they will be able to get along with less presently. A member is never so wise or important as on the day he arrives in Washington, but the atmosphere absorbs much of his size, and by evaporation he subsides to his natural dimensions. It was always so, and will be forever. An employee of the House was telling me about a new Congressman from the South who came walking into the hall, looked around for a while with an air of ownership, as if he had just bought the Capitol and was pleased with his purchase, and then inquired which the vacant desks were. When told they were all vacant he seemed to be gratified, and asked how they were assigned.

"Every member selects for himself," was the reply.

"Which have been taken?"

"None. Nobody has been in to choose yet."

"Well, that's lucky, ain't it; so I'm the first man in the ground," and walking away with a satisfied air he picked out a seat nearly in front of the clerk's desk and observed: "I reckon I'll roost here."

The word was passed around among the messengers and pages, and, as usual, they were ready for a lark. A card was sent, upon which the new honorable wrote his name, and then one of the boys shoved it in the frame made for the purpose. Next they showed him to the stationery room, where he inquired into the perquisites of a legislator, and seemed greatly pleased at the idea of having so much fine letter paper and sundries at his disposal. He gave each of the pages a pocket-knife, and the stationery clerk put him up an assortment of all kinds and sizes of paper and envelopes, which he packed away in his desk. Then he sat down to write a letter home and tell the folks all about it. Next week he will discover what the boys were laughing at.

I heard about another member of the freshman class at the Capitol who discovered the House restaurant, ordered a square meal, ate it with great gusto, and was then knocked out of his chair by having a cashier's check presented to him. He had previously taken a bath and offered to pay for it, but was told that it was a free Government institution. He naturally concluded that a great nation that bathed its servants and paid men to rub them down fed them as well, and thought the waiter was trying to humbug him.

"Isn't this the members' restaurant?" he asked. "Yes, sir," replied the waiter. "Well, I'm a member from So-and-So." "Can't help that, sir; members pay just like other folks." He hauled out his wallet deliberately and settled the bill, but it will take some time for the idea to get through his head. —Washington Capital.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Jan. 15.—Noah Merriam, the wife murderer, was hanged to-day at 11:25 a. m. Previous to the execution he admitted having killed his wife and confessed the murder of a woman peddler in East St. Louis six years ago, but whose name he would not reveal. While the noose was being adjusted about his neck he fainted and it required three men to hold him in position over the trap. The trap was then sprung and the man died in twelve minutes, after suffering most terrible agony.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 15.—Charles Wilson was hanged this morning at 7:45, for the murder of his river steamer mate some time ago. He remained calm to the last, still protesting his innocence. Beaumont, Texas, Jan. 15.—Wm. Madison, colored, was hanged to-day for the murder of Albert Smith, also colored last summer.

A Carriage Factory Burns—Loss, $275,000.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 15.—Hiram W. Davis & Co's. carriage manufactory at Flint Wade and Duane streets, burned this morning. The loss is estimated at $150,000; insurance, $100,000. The watchman discovered the fire in the basement, where it is supposed to have caught from shavings. Mr. Davis values the whole property, stock and material at $275,000. Owing to precautions against fire, a portion of the building was saved with considerable portion of the stock and material. The factory was working full time and had many orders ahead. Two hundred and fifty hands are thrown out of employment.

CAR WORKS BURNED.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Jan. 15.—The Beaver Falls car works, foundry and machine shops burned to the ground this morning, together with the Chinese headquarters and every building in the square facing on Sixth Avenue except the old mansion house. The loss is very heavy.

EPITHELIOMA OR SKIN CANCER.

For seven years I suffered with a cancer on my face. A little tumor was removed, but it grew, finally extending into my nose, from which came a yellowish discharge very offensive in character. It was also inflamed, and caused me great pain. About a year ago I was in Atlanta, at the house of a friend, who strongly recommended the use of Swift's Specific. I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was successful, and began its use. The influence of the medicine at first was to somewhat aggravate the sore; but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began to improve after the first few bottles. My general health has greatly improved. I am strong, and able to do any kind of work. The cancer on my face began to decrease and the ulcer to heal, until there is not a vestige of it left, but a little scar marks the place where it had been. I am ready to answer all questions relative to this cure.

MRS. JOSEPH A. McDONALD,
Atlanta, Ga., August 11, 1885.

I have had a cancer on my face for some years, extending from one cheek bone across the nose to the other. It has given me great deal of pain, at times burning up and itching to such an extent that I was almost unbearable. I commenced using Swift's Specific in May, 1884, and have used eight bottles. It has given the greatest relief by removing the inflammation and restoring my general health.

W. HARRIS,
Knoxville, Iowa, Sept. 8, 1885.

For many years I was a sufferer with cancer of the nose, and having been cured by the use of S. S. S., I feel constrained by a sense of duty to suffering humanity to make this statement of my case. With the 14th bottle the cancer began to heal rapidly and soon disappeared, and for several months there has been no appearance of a sore of any kind on my nose or face, neither is my nose at all tender to the touch. I have taken about two dozen bottles of S. S. S., and am soundly cured, and I know that S. S. S. effected the cure after every known remedy was tried and had failed.

RUBERT SMILEY,
Port Gales, Ga., May 1, 1885.

I had heard of the wonderful cures of Swift's Specific, and resolved to try it. I commenced taking it in April, 1884. My general health was much improved, yet the cancer which was in my breast continued to grow slowly but surely. The tumor grew and became quite heavy. I felt that I must either have it cut out or die. But it commenced discharging quantities of blood, which I felt bleeding. It continued bleeding around the edges until February, when it was entirely healed up and well.

COCHESSETT, Plymouth Co., Mass., July 10, 1894.
Swift's Specific is entirely vegetable, and seems to cure cancers by forcing out the impurities from the blood.

THE AMERICAN OPERA.

Its Auspicious Opening at the Academy in New York

"The Taming of the Shrew"—A Goodly Company and a Fine Audience—The Chief Figures in the Company.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—America has its own opera at last. The eagle has been taught to sing as melodiously as any foreign bird that ever wore feathers. At last, after years of homing to Italy and Germany, we are on our own feet in the matter of music, and can stand without wobbling. We can produce the emotional lyric dramas with our own talent and in our own tongue, and do it well. We can go to the opera now without lying. We can understand and appreciate. The simplest of us can fit the words to the sound—a tremendous gain, surely.

The opening of this heretofore infant sent occurred at the Academy of Music on Monday night, the 4th inst. It was an event of great magnitude and very bad weather. Nobody minded the rain, however, for the old academy was filled with the most important human material the city could produce.

This new departure in the work of a woman, or women—several having assisted in the great work, Mrs. F. B. Thurber taking the lead. The project of American opera is her own. Mrs. William S. Blodgett, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Richard Irving, Mrs. Thomas W. Ward and others have helped bring the enterprise to its present status.

Mrs. Thurber's work in musical circles has been something extraordinary, and until recently has not been known to that generally all-seeing beast, the public. She has a large and independent income, a great part of which she devotes to the practical encouragement of musical projects. In addition to this she generously gives her time and efforts, frequently, it is said, taking upon herself the thankless task of management. It is also said that she furnished the capital for several musical campaigns, in which Theodore Thomas has been the chief figure and Charles R. Locke second.

She employs two secretaries to attend to the correspondence and other affairs which are the natural outgrowth of the important musical affairs in which she is interested. During the musical seasons she is constantly importuned by the strugglers in the musical field—singers or would-be singers, pianists, violinists, artists of much energy and poor luck—to lend her influence in procuring engagements, and sometimes to open her purse for the wolf of hunger gnawing unchecked in Bohemia. She receives these callers, one at a time, in a back parlor devoted to business. The front parlor continually overflows with waiting applicants.

It is not generally known that Theodore Thomas' tour with the Wagner singers, Materna, Winkelman and Searia originated with her. She is the wife of a well-known anti-monopolist.

But to the opening. As I said before, everybody was there, everybody who had diamonds and other operative accessories, for want of whom man can appreciate opera with covered heads, and what man could enjoy it in anything but the severest crowding dress. So successful was this opening that the applause began with the rising of the curtain, and ended not until the going down thereof. Theodore Thomas was the conductor, of course. Who could have done it? And he was so well pleased with the performance that, at its close, smiles chased each other over his face like streaks of sunshine in cloudland, and this wasn't his first experience in conducting opera, either. Look at him in the picture and see if he isn't as handsome and youthful as ever. The Sun, of this city, says what all lovers of honest, home-brewed music will endorse in these words:

"In the hundreds of concerts which he has given, and which have reached from the Atlantic to the Pacific, Thomas has cultivated in thousands of Americans the love of music of a high class, and has done much for the musical education of the people. He has undertaken now to provide the talent of American boys and girls with the sunshine of encouragement which it needs to develop, and if he carries out the plan it will be a prouder work than anything that he has done before. By and by, when we have Patti of our own sending their voices up out of sight and basses with double basses and cello voices, this picture will be graven in the hearts of proud mothers, and hung instead of the blue-ribbon mottoes in the happy homes of genius all over the land."

Charles E. Locke, the manager, whose picture gives but a poor idea of his actual beauty, was born in Dayton, O., of Quaker blood. His happy parents destined him for the ministry, but he had strong leanings toward theatre, and at an early age began to hunt his uncle's opera house at Kansas City to the complete admiration of ministerial aspirants. That the stage has, in this instance, robbed the ministry to its own advantage nobody doubts.

Kate Bushy, soprano, who played in the role of Bianca, is a native of St. Louis and has been five years a student in Germany. Altonio E. Scott, who sang Hortensio, is a baritone from Massachusetts. He, too, is a student, and is from Buffalo, and was graduated at Dartmouth college. He used to be in the Kellogg concert company. W. H. Lee (Petruchio) is a New Yorker, not yet 21 years old, and has been before the public as a singer ten years. He is a baritone, high, and should suit the chromo for perfect enunciation. Miss Emma Juch is almost an American. She was born in Vienna on the 4th of July—not this year, like Galube—but not a great while ago. Annie Montague, soprano, is a Baltimorean. She has been with the Kellogg company, and with Stratosch in Italian opera. Charlotte Walker and Minnie Dittler are both Americans.

Jessie Bartlett Davis, first contralto, is an American. The other contraltos are Helen Dudley Campbell, Katharine Jacobs, Mathilde Muellerbach and Mathilde Phillips. William Gandia, leading tenor, is a Philadelphian, who has fought in the war and sung abroad. Charles Turner, tenor, is an American, but he has done some powerful voicing on American soil, Charles H. Thompson and Albert Tabet are among the tenors. George Fox, baritone, is English.

"The Taming of the Shrew" is an adaptation of Shakespeare's play of the same name. Playgoers are familiar with it through an abridgement entitled "Katherine and Petruchio." The plot is an antique one, founded on medieval notions of womanhood and wooing. The governing principle is found in the old saw, "If you want a dog or a woman to like you beat him or her." Katherine and Bianca are daughters of a rich gentleman of Padua, named Baptista. Bianca is of the conventional pattern of well behaved, obedient and insipid young women, but Katherine is a fury. Lucentio and Hortensio, two proper young gentlemen, love Bianca, but her father declares that she shall not marry until her elder sister is provided with a husband. The lovers are greatly put out at this unfavorable turn of events.

About this time Petruchio, with great wealth and a will as strong as a Hercules' dam, comes along. He is tired of being wooed by women, and concludes that it would be capital pleasure to woo an unwilling maid. Petruchio has also a fertile brain. He at once puts the two disconsolate lovers of Bianca in a position to go on with their wooing, something they were not brilliant enough to think of themselves. He induces them to disguise themselves as teachers and engage to instruct Bianca. This plot works and Lucentio is the successful suitor. Petruchio declares his intention of proposing to Katherine. Her father gives his consent, but the tug of war is in getting Katherine's consent. She is furious at his presumption, and he refuses to accept his dismissal, and obstinately declares that he has been accepted, and fixes the wedding day. He keeps her waiting on the bridal morning, arrives late, indifferently clad, marries her and hustles her away before the wedding festivities have scarcely begun. "He subsequently breaks her temper and wins her affection," as one critic expresses it, two extraordinary things to do certainly, but all things are possible in opera, which frequently distinguishes itself by getting as far from nature as fiction can go.

ANNIHILATING A MUSICIAN.

The days preceding the wooing of the fiery Katherine were exciting ones for her attendants. She fairly annihilated a maid who is dressing her hair, and brings a music teacher to grief. The picture, "Between Bianca," gives an idea of Mrs. Katherine enjoying a full between the basins of temper; another, entitled "Annihilating a Musician," represents a result of her displeasure. "The Shrew Brought to Terms" depicts a scene in the process of "taming."

The ballet was exceptionally fine; largely American, too. It danced into the hearts of the people at once to the music of Rubenstein's "Andantino." A large number of the corps, the premieres and the secondaries are from Italy. Twelve are of the American school, some of whom are in the first line, and the third, six figures are Americans. It has been asserted that American genius has no leaning toward the ballet. It has had no encouragement. The principals, with but few exceptions, in this ballet are natives.

And as for the chorus, it was an improvement on the imported article. It consisted of fresh voices and fresh faces, and every member of it was as elegantly attired as the principal singers. Let us hope that the ugly, frayed and ragged choruses of sunny Italy will eventually be banished from the stage entirely.

THE SHREW BROUGHT TO TERMS.

The principals of the American Opera company are the products of a dozen states. Mme. Lallmand, a leading soprano, was born in Syracuse, this state. She was never heard in this country until the opening night of the opera, when she appeared as Katherine. She studied in Paris, Dresden and Stuttgart, and has been one of the prominent coloratura singers of Europe. Miss Leone Hasterlitz, also a leading soprano, is a native of Louisville. Mr. Theodore Thomas is considered an American, if he did make a mistake of not being born on native soil.

Charles E. Locke, the manager, whose picture gives but a poor idea of his actual beauty, was born in Dayton, O., of Quaker blood. His happy parents destined him for the ministry, but he had strong leanings toward theatre, and at an early age began to hunt his uncle's opera house at Kansas City to the complete admiration of ministerial aspirants. That the stage has, in this instance, robbed the ministry to its own advantage nobody doubts.

Her father gives his consent, but the tug of war is in getting Katherine's consent. She is furious at his presumption, and he refuses to accept his dismissal, and obstinately declares that he has been accepted, and fixes the wedding day. He keeps her waiting on the bridal morning, arrives late, indifferently clad, marries her and hustles her away before the wedding festivities have scarcely begun. "He subsequently breaks her temper and wins her affection," as one critic expresses it, two extraordinary things to do certainly, but all things are possible in opera, which frequently distinguishes itself by getting as far from nature as fiction can go.

Everybody knows Myron W. Whitney, great in oratorio, a basso that makes the earth tremble. He began life in Massachusetts. He believes firmly in the continued success and growth of American opera. He attained his proficiency in oratorio in London. He has traveled with the Thomas orchestra, sung with the Boston Ideal company and at all the festivals east and west. John Gilbert (basso), associated with Mr. Whitney, is a journalist as well as a singer, and an American. He has been with the Emma Abbott English Opera company.

The American Opera company is not synonymous with the American School of Opera, recently started in this city, though Theodore Thomas is at the head of both. The organizations are distinct, but occupy common ground in the effort to educate Americans in musical art. The opera company will give opportunities to pupils of the school, as they are prepared for work from time to time.

One critic says: "The noble motive which stimulated the beginning of this operatic venture, as well as the commencement of a school which is now only the germ of what is destined ultimately to become a national conservatory of large proportions and ambitious intentions, cannot be too highly valued as the nucleus of national growth which will undoubtedly in time become equal to artistic results to that which any country in the world can boast. Americans are not deficient in any quality necessary to the development of a very high class of art manifestations. We are sensitive, imaginative, inventive, ambitious, persevering, acute, and there is little reason to doubt that in future days this country will be the peer of any in the creation of musical works of lasting fame. As for executive ability, no nation is more gifted; either in voice or in general musical talent, than we, as is constantly being more clearly shown."

Yes, we are at last beginning to realize that our blessed mother tongue is good enough to sing, as well as talk and write in, and that a performance need not lack in artistic effect in consequence of the words being English.

Another critic says: "Foreign prima donnas have ruled us at the rate of $100,000 a year, and custom has chained us down to yelling 'Brava' at things we don't understand."

There is a strong belief that American opera will be successful. That in some respects it is superior to the Italian brand goes without saying. The chorus, particularly, is a step upward, and a big one. Again, it has another strong hold on the good will of the people. It is a new and promising American industry. It opens the way for hundreds, perhaps thousands, of eager hands, as well as finished throats, to exercise themselves with hope of reward. It develops specialists in many lines of work, and suggests possibilities of stupendous successes in the future.

The costumes are to be prepared. This requires archaeological lore and artistic sense, as well as good, reliable, old-fashioned industry. The opera of "Lohengrin" alone requires 900 costumes. Scenic skill is needed, and numerous aids not visible to the naked eye will have a field in which to exercise their talents. All in all, this new-born child of American enterprise and talent has the good wishes of its kinfolk, and will doubtless have their substantial assistance in the future.

A. J. BOWEN.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., The News:
"A remarkable discovery made last winter, which involves a most important question—that of public health, is being discussed by eminent physicians and public men. It is shown conclusively that throat and lung troubles can be cured without resorting to the use of morphia or opium, especially dangerous in the case of children. The Governor of Maryland and all the officials of that state endorse the remedy; and hospitals and charitable institutions in this and other cities use it with remarkable results. The remedy, which is only twenty-five cents a bottle, is Red Star Cough Cure. It is purely vegetable; it contains no poison or narcotics, and is a positive cure."

There is one thing nobody ever forgets—that is, the day they first adopted Parke's Tonic as their regular family medicine. Its range is so wide, and its good effects so sure, that nothing else, except good nursing, are needed in a great majority of cases. Buy it, try it, and afterwards it will not require any praise from us.

FRIDAY, JAN. 15, 1886.

THE CITY.

Joe Gessman visited at Huntington yesterday.

Mrs. Robert Ogden has returned from Huntington.

M. N. and Julius Nathan were at Lafayette yesterday.

George Ewing left last night for Sing Sing, N. Y., to attend school.

Rev. A. B. Oehring, of Mishawaka, cousin of the pastor of St. Mary's church, is in the city.

Messrs. W. Bash, W. H. Fleming and H. Rockhill, went to Steubenville, Ohio, this morning.

Col. C. E. Brient, Jacob Weber and Dr. Severance, of Huntington, were in the city last evening.

Messrs. James and William Wilkinson were registered at the Grand hotel, Indianapolis, yesterday.

Low Wallace yesterday got judgment for $408 against the Standard company in Judge O'Rourke's court.

Ellis Senles and others, of this city took in a masquerade at the skating rink at Huntington last night.

J. H. P. Dughart, the secretary of the Grand Rapids and Indiana, has gone to Pittsburg on railroad business.

George Simmons, of Hudson, Indiana, sold over fifteen hundred pounds of hides and tallow at Fort Wayne this week.

F. I. Maybury, traveling passenger agent of the Grand Rapids and Indiana, is in Fort Wayne on business connected with the road.

Edward Sidel, agent for the Buffalo German Insurance company, sees Wm. L. Thompson et al for $500. J. F. Rod-abough filed the suit.

The city band concert occurs next Wednesday at the Temple. This is the grandest musical event of the season and will attract a big house.

Argument on the counter claim of the Fort Wayne Jany Electric Light company vs. the Jany company was had yesterday before Judge Taylor, at Indianapolis.

"It is presumable to believe that Captain Iddings will get no more free tickets to Fort Wayne at the expense of the newly appointed postmaster of this city," says the Kendallville News.

A four months old child of A. B. Tonole, owner of the South Wayne poultry yards, died yesterday, very suddenly. The little girl was the only child and the parents are almost prostrated with grief.

Rev. W. Lynch, of Fort Wayne, will preach at the M. E. church, in Angola, next Sunday morning and evening. Sacrament after the morning services. Business meeting for the election of trustees will be held there on Monday.

Huntington gossipers are all agog over the actions of a well known jewelry man, who is married and has a family, and the wife of another prominent citizen. This, however, it is said is not the only case of this kind in our neighboring city.

Brakeman Hughes, with Conductor W. Hochaday, on Wabash train 72, the local freight running between Fort Wayne and Toledo, had a finger smashed while coupling cars in the stone quarry track at White House station. He went to the Peru hospital for treatment.

The Pennsylvania lines are curtailing expenses at Chicago, and have dropped a number of employees. Among these are Captain Landmark, who was steam ship agent, of the company for many years at Chicago, at Waukegan, passenger agent, and Frank L. Wood, city passenger agent.

H. J. McSheehy, of Logansport, who has been connected with the signal service for the past six years, has received word from Washington that he had been promoted from sergeant to second lieutenant, and that it was the intention to make the office at that place first class in the service.

The Lake Shore company has issued an order that all employees on the road shall pay their fare the same as other passengers when they travel, if the object of the visit is for pleasure. But if they go on business for the company then passes will be furnished. This is pinning the men down pretty close.

During the extremely bad weather the road masters on the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific railway have, as a matter of safety, placed upon the line of the road night watchmen, whose duty it will be to go over the sections before each passenger train is due with a hand ax to cut away any trees that may have fallen on the track, examine carefully all the switches and look for broken rails.

Andrew Hagen, state oil inspector, has made his annual report to the governor. It shows that during the last year 1,033 barrels of oil were rejected—an excess of 857 over any previous year, which shows well for the efficiency of the inspector's employes. During the year 123,001 barrels of oil were shipped, the few on which amounted to $10, 037 73, and the expenses of the office were $273 50.

Judge R. S. Taylor returned from Indianapolis yesterday.

Isaac Stratton and Lydia J. Crawford have been licensed to wed.

There was no police court this morning and no business in the justice courts.

G. H. Perry and R. F. Kinnaird were registered at the Grand hotel, Indianapolis, yesterday.

B. L. Brown, formerly prescriptionist with C. B. Woodworth & Co., is in the city en route to Kansas City.

Wm. M. Reigner got judgment in the superior court to-day for $800 against M. N. Jacobs and Louis Heilbrunn.

Mr. John Lillie, jr., is in poor health and will shortly leave for the Island of Nassau, in the West Indies, to remain some time.

Joseph Schoffer and wife arrived last night from Nashville, Tenn., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Schoffer's father, Antoine Evans.

Albert Markey, of the Wabash freight office, fell yesterday and sprained his ankle so badly that he will be laid up for some time.

Geo. W. Hawkins, Indianapolis; C. Kendall and A. L. Spitzer, Toledo, and Wm. A. Barnett, Dayton, are guests at the Arveline house.

Mr. Frank Menach, the mail carrier, was summoned to New York last night by a telegram announcing that his mother was dying.

W. L. Swift, G. Straith, H. H. Brandon, Chicago; J. Beale, C. S. Gray, Toledo, and George F. Worts, New York, are at the Robinson.

Jim Neis, who formerly traveled for Carnahan, Hanna & Co., is in the city visiting friends. Mr. Neis is now in the shoe business at Battle Creek, Mich.

Fred C. Boltz will receive the Louisiana lottery list to-morrow. These numbers captured the capital prizes: No. 24,945, $75,000; 84,921, $25,000; 79,658, $10,000.

George Rabus, the popular young center of this city, was elected a vice-president of the United Custom Cutters' association at their last meeting held in Cleveland, Ohio.

Joe Murphy and his party played at Lima last night. The manager of the Joe Murphy company tells us that "A Midnight Marriage" is one of the finest things on the road.

The Bucyrus polo team will play the Princess team at the Princess rink this evening and Saturday evening. The Bucyrus team has a great reputation and the Fort Wayne boys will try to knock them out.

"It is said that Sion S. Bass post G. A. R. at Fort Wayne, has the largest membership of any post in the United States, and of the number, the democrats have a majority of nearly 300," says the Logansport Banner.

Col. Geo. Humphrey and a force of men are cleaning the Mayer house property for a fine store building to be erected by Mr. J. B. White. The building will front on Wayne street and run back sixty feet along the bus barn.

Politics is opening up brisk in Wells county. Two candidates are announced for county auditor, six for clerk, ten for recorder, five for treasurer, one for sheriff, two for surveyor and four for commissioner. The primary election is held February 6.

At Larwill, Ind., on the Pittsburg road, a wheel on the engine of a freight train broke down, which caused the engine and two cars to leave the track. The wheel was replaced by a new one and after a delay of two and a half hours the train pulled out again. The damage was slight.

The services at the Second Presbyterian church, conducted by Rev. H. M. Paynter, are beginning to attract much attention and interest on the part of the public as well as the congregation. The services to-day are at 2:30 and 7:30. All are welcome to both the afternoon and evening services.

The Fort Wayne rifles met at Sion S. Bass post hall last evening and decided to use the West Point gray uniform and will contract with a Fort Wayne house. They have also determined to give a grand benefit ball on February 22 next, and expect to use the old Masonic lodge hall for that purpose.

The building at Peru which has been used by the officials of the bridge and building department of the Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific railway, as an office, was torn down last week and removed to Andrews, where it will be erected and used for the same purpose, as that place will hereafter be the headquarters for all the lumber and building supplies pertaining to that department.

The trustees of the new First church have postponed the sale of bonds and invite attention to the investment. Not more than $20,000 of the bonds will likely be sold, as that amount will be sufficient to complete the church unless the trustees decide to complete the spire, in which case it will require the full amount of the bonds authorized to be issued, viz: $25,000 will be required to be sold. After the bonds are subscribed for, there will be only a very small amount of the $25,000 to be provided for.

BRADY & GARWOOD.

They Propose to Have a Play House at Detroit to Make Their Circuit.

The Detroit Free Press has an interview with Mr. Brady, of the firm of Brady & Garwood, proprietors of the Academy of Music here, in which Mr. Brady said: "Yes, sir, we intend to build a theater in Detroit. I came over here to further look after the matter."

"What kind of a theater would you run?"

"A popular place of amusement—good attractions at low prices."

"How large a house will you build?"

"Large enough to seat 2,500 persons. Of course it would be of the regular theatre shape, raised seats, etc. I have just made Mr. Whitney an offer for the seats, stage, scenery, galleries and inside fixtures generally of his house, and I am inclined to think he will accept it."

"Will you continue your Toledo and Fort Wayne theaters?"

"Yes, we want to have three or four houses and play the same attractions at all of them. I look upon Detroit as a good point. It is a large city, rapidly growing and ought to support two or three good theaters."

FOR MURDER.

Jacobs, Who Killed a Man up North, on Trial.

The Jacobs murder case was called for trial in the Angola circuit court yesterday. The prosecution will be conducted by Prosecutor Peterson and E. A. Bratton, and Messrs. Woodhull & Brown will appear for the defense. There is no question of the prisoner's guilt but it is expected that his counsel will plead previous good character in mitigation and will make a vigorous effort to secure as light punishment as is consistent with law and the terrible crime that lurked his victim form time to time. A number of witnesses from Huntington and Allen counties, the prisoner's former home, will testify in the case. A special venire of 72 persons has been drawn from which to select a jury of twelve to try the murder case.

Real Estate Transfers.

Olds Bros., real estate agents, room No. 8, Foster block, report the following recorded real estate transfers:

Otto W. Groes to John G. Gutermuth, by warranty deed, lot 47, Rockhill and Nelson's addition, for $1,050.

Aaron S. Brakin to Amos Warner, by warranty deed, part of section 5, Cedar Creek township, for $175.

S. C. Lumbard to John A. and Melissa J. Tracey, by warranty deed, lot 84 Hucates and Taylor's addition, for $150.

Harriet L. Sterlin et al. to Sarah J. Sheaffer, by quit claim deed, lot 30, Wallen.

William B. Howard to Ferdinand Bandler et al., by warranty deed, part of section 9, Jefferson township, for $4,285.

William Fleming to F. H. Hobbs, by quit claim deed, eighty acres in section 22, Milan township, for $1.

John Eby to F. H. Hobbs, by quit claim deed, eighty acres in section 22, Milan township for $1.

Sammel F. Beneler to George Beneler, by quit claim deed, twenty acres in section 7, Milan township for $300.

"A Midnight Marriage."

Mr. William Redmond and Mrs. Thomas Barry deserve public commendation for presenting, during this deplorable period of farces and sensational dramas, a play romantic in tone, sparkling and exciting in action, and withal intelligently conceived, designed and interpreted. The play is one of intense interest and this interest gathers its strength, not from trashy sentiment, sensational situations and unwholesome emotions, but from a legitimate plot founded upon historic events, portrayed by excellent dialogue, correct and handsome costumes and excellent stage mountings. The play will be the attraction at the Temple opera house to-morrow night.

A Thrifty Railroader.

John Burns, who is an employee in the engine department on the Wabash at Andrews, raffled off a cow at two o'clock last Saturday. One hundred tickets had been printed; and were sold at fifty cents each. The lucky number was ticket seventy-four, which was held by John King, of the car-repairing force. Mr. Burns some time ago purchased a tract of land containing twenty acres, in Allen county opposite Prairie Switch, on the south side. By selling his cow, applying some of his wages he had laid by and borrowing a small amount he is able to lift the mortgage on the place. The farm cost him $1,000.

They Were Even.

Hubbard—"Here's a new wrinkle; ladies' silk stockings have snakes on 'em."

Wife—"Yes, I know. I have just bought a pair of that kind of hose."

H.—"What, with snakes on 'em?"

W.—"Yes."

H.—"Then we're all right. I can drink as much as I please now."

W.—"What do you mean?"

H.—"Well, you see, if you have snakes on your stockings you can't find fault with me if I should happen to have 'em in my boots."—Horizon (Cawker).
